Administrator Academy #1851: Coaching 101 for Leaders

FEATURING:
PETER
DEWITT

Peter DeWitt (Ed.D) is a former K-5 teacher and principal . He runs competency-based workshops and provides keynotes nationally and internationally focusing on collaborative leadership and fostering inclusive school climates. His work has been adopted at the state level, university level, and he works with numerous school districts and school boards on collaborative leadership’s 6 influences that matter most (i.e. instructional leadership, collective efficacy, professional learning, feedback, assessment capable learners, family engagement) around North America and the U.K, and DeWitt works as a school leadership coach in North America.

Too often leaders are being asked to be instructional leadership, but many either do not know what that means exactly, or they are unclear where to begin. In this presentation, Peter DeWitt focuses on how all methods of coaching can help leaders focus on four specific areas of instructional leadership, and learn how to build collective efficacy among staff to build a more collaborative community.

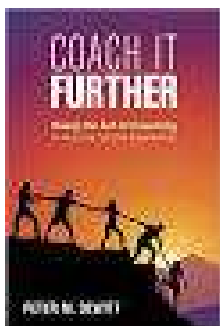

Session Outcomes:

- Participants will learn why leadership coaching can be a powerful method to help leaders become more successful.
- Participants will learn the four main areas of instructional leadership, which are instructional strategies, student engagement, content knowledge and collective efficacy.
- Participants will learn the challenges leaders face that often prevents them from reaching instructional leadership
- Participants will learn about collective efficacy and the complexities to building it with staff
- Participants will learn why opportunity, purpose, expectations, and next steps are important to leadership coaching
- Participants will learn the characteristics often sought in the high quality leaders

Session Alignment:

Based on the research of DeWitt; Tschannen-Moran & Barr; Kuhn; Hattie; and others, participants will learn how to how to engage in leadership coaching to focus on improving instructional leadership from multiple perspectives and how to make it more impactful using research-based practices.
