New Teacher Recalculation Workshop

Have you ever used GPS and made a wrong turn? You know you're heading in the right direction, but something happened, and you got off track. The friendly GPS voice doesn't judge, but just says, "Recalculating."

This workshop series will help you review the route you've taken during the first months of your teaching career. When necessary, you will be guided to "recalculate" the skills you use to make your classroom the destination you hoped it would be for you and your students.
